

How does a temperature test work for packaging that has to withstand extreme temperatures?